Visual Direction

- use wooden beams and shelves to display their items
- each section and shelf is spaced out nicely
- includes displays of nature-related in store & on website
- uses signs of the same colour and spacing (grey, centred)
- uses slightly warm-toned lighting
- makes the place feel very earthly, calm, minimal & homely
- MUJI's brand tone: minimalistic, understated, gentle

Rationale

MUJI uses wooden beams and nature-related decorations, which helps create an earthy, clean, and calm atmosphere. The spacious and uncluttered store creates a minimalist, peaceful area for customers to shop at their own pace, allowing them to make a conscious purchase.

MUJI's products also come in recycled paper boxes that are minimal and functional, reinforcing their brand belief in sustainability. The store is also designed with the customers' experience in mind with similar products and services categorised neatly and in close proximity to each other. Maps are also located around the store, enabling a seamless browsing experience, and encouraging customers to buy the product they were looking for.

Rationale

MUJI also uses nature imagery on their website, which supports their environmentally-friendly image. The products there are also sectioned neatly, consistent with how MUJI arranges its in-store items. The well-organised and coherent interface allows customers easy access to products they were looking for.

MUJI's social media is consistent with their brand: their feed is professional, uses their main colours, and is very minimalistic. They also use other pastel colours that fit the products they are promoting, reflecting their calm and peaceful vibe. Their tone of voice is sincere yet informative, allowing MUJI to be seen as trustworthy, calm and quietly confident.
