

Customer Journey Map

Target Audience

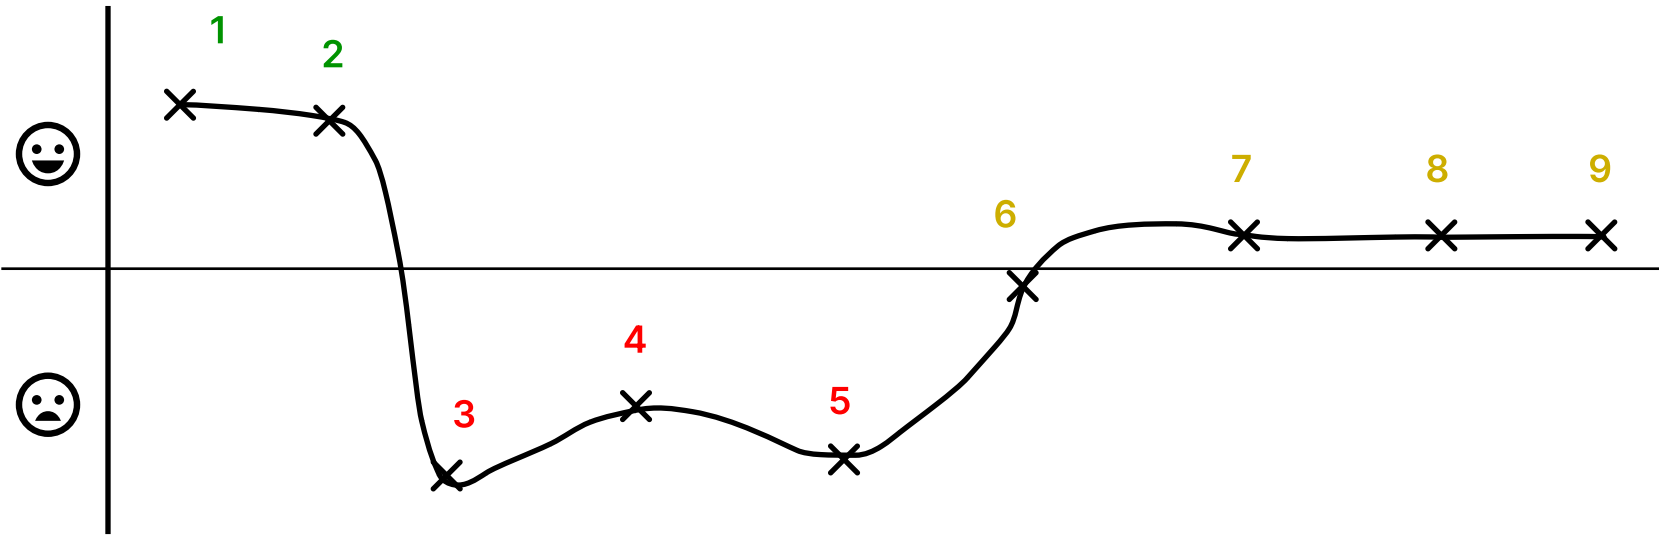

- Gen Z female
- Currently studying in Uni
- Loves street-wear that is unique and expressive

Background Story/Scenario

She wants to buy a new pair of jeans for her everyday wear. She usually searches outfit recommendations on Instagram to get suggestions on what to buy.

Customer emotions

3

4

5

Painpoints

She might not know what HERIBA is and struggle to find the street-wear style she wants

Opportunities

Can have a page specifically for styling recommendations categorised to different styles for them to either find out which style they are looking for, or explore how to style batik clothing

Painpoints

Just sees clothing pieces displayed, cannot visualise how it looks like on a person unless she clicks into it → not enticing

Opportunities

The first impression should be stronger, can replace it with a picture of a model wearing the item

Painpoints

Don't know what size fits her
Might miss out certain tabs (e.g. description, design origin)
Descriptions too wordy

Opportunities

Include a sizing chart
Can include a section briefly mentioning the inspiration of the product (e.g. designer, artisan behind the batik) → bring up cultural significance